

Verbena Planting Guide

About Verbena

Blooming only 8" off the ground, this Verbena Compact Mix sure knows how to put on a show! With colors from red, to white, to purple, to violet and everything in between it's a perfect choice for hanging baskets and window boxes.

When to Plant

Start Verbena indoors 8-10 weeks before the last frost of the season, or sow directly into the garden after the last frost of the season has passed.

Where to Plant

Plant Verbena in average, well draining, moist, acidic soils with access to full sun (6-8 hours of sun per day). Once established, Verbena has a good tolerance to heat and drought, making it suitable for areas that are exposed to such conditions. Verbena also has a tendency to spread, so keep that in mind when locating an area for planting.

How to Plant

Spread Verbena seeds into moistened soil via broadcasting over the planting area. Lightly cover the seed no deeper than 1/8"; light is not required to germinate the seeds. When started indoors, transplant each Verbena 8-12" apart.

Caring for Verbena

Younger plants can be pinched to encourage a bushier habit, and spent flowers can be deadheaded to encourage a new flush of bloom. Cuttings can be taken from mature plants in the late summer months and kept indoors for the next season.
